BICYCLE ORDINANCE

Mayor's Veto Sustained by the Council.

LACKED THREE VOTES

ANOTHER VETO IS LIKEWISE SUSTAINED BY COUNCIL.

Once more Mayor Thompson has been victorious with his objections to actions of the city council. A week ago the council passed an ordinance reducing the restricted sidewalk district for bicycles riding and throwing open numerous sidewalks to wheelmen during the winter months. On Monday during the winter months. On Monday the mayor vetoed the ordinance and last evening the veto was sustained.

ing the bill were that the sidewalks are intended for use by pedestrians and not by vehicles, but the recommendation was urged that the question on constructing bicycle paths in the streets, be considered.

When the veto was taken up by the council last evening a motion prevaled to defer consideration until the last order of business was reached. because of the embarrassing presence of so many wheelmen in the council chamber. But when the message was again before the body Fernstrom proposed to defer the vote for one week. Several of the members contended that this theory and pointed to precedent. However, the motion to defer was lost, 5 to 6.

Fernstrom, C. R. Howe and Hewlett contended for the ordinance as a measure according only justice to bicycle riders, but the majority was on the motion to pass the ordinance notwithstanding the mayor's objections thereto. Buckle, Cottrell, Fernstrom, Hewlett, C. R. Howe, Reid and Thomas voted in the affirmative. Three votes more were needed to override the veto, and the absentees were Beatty. Hardman the privilege without pay to screen gravel on the northeast bench and sell it, also came up for consideration. The objections stated by the mayor were that the only available place for opening a new gravel pit is on private property and the wiscom of granting such an exclusive previous segment to be of

and the wiscom of granting such an exclusive privilege seemed to be of doubtful propriety.

By a vote of 7 ayes and 6 noes, the veto was sustained, the votes for the veto being announced by Buckle, Davis, Edgar Howe, Robertson, Thomas, Tuddenham and Whittemore. Beatty and Hartenstein were absent.

On behalf of a number of farmers owning land below the mouth of Big Cottonwood canyon, Clesson S. PREPARING TO TRANSFER ROAD CITY HAS NO RIGHT TO INTER-FERE IN THE MATTER.

In spite of the great interest that attaches to the case, both in this city "Those things will develop later," said Colonel Dodge. "It will be thirty days before the stockholders of the Denver & Rio Grande vote on the consolidation, and until that time little will be known."

The Denver papers are giving some interesting details of the Rio Grande transaction. One report says the men who negotiated the deal are to receive as a fee the enormous sum of $2,700,000. Who the fortunate manipulators are is not stated.

The spice of the great therest can attaches to the case, both in this city and in Ogden, only a small knot of people had assembled in the federal court room at 10 o'clock yesterday morning when Judge Marshall took the bench orally, with a running comment on the evidence and the law governing the case.

No Right to Interfere.

The judgment lie held by the city, he maintained at the outset, gave the the passeans a great savers. It is estimated that with offices not absolutely having the form of the roads, the having the corease in net revenue will amount to $1,000,000 per annum.

It is indicated by this that the Rio Grande Western will not lose its name, nor will all its offices be abolished. Circulars are being issued by the firm of Spencer, Trask & Co., describing the method of the transfer of the Rio Grande Western to the Denver & Rio Grande Western to the Denver & Rio Grande. The new stock of the latter company is being exchanged for the old was given. The control of these pipes and hydrants, even though they might belong to the citizens, must be in the hands of the company, for otherwise it would be unable to cut the water off from delinquents, as it had the sole right to do.

Suc-Judge Marshall didn't feel justified in enjoining the council from passing; any more resolutions such as those passed on March 16 and March 22, in which the citizens were requested to enter into no contracts with the water company and to pay no rates to anybody. There was doubt in the mind of the court as to whether or not he could legally grant such an injunction are right to do.

The company's rights along this line were exercised steadily and continuously without question as to their legality until the council passed the resolutions referred to. The resolutions, Judge Marshall thought, were called out by the notices sent around by the company telling their patrons to settle their bills and enter into new contracts.

Remington's Smoke Consumer.

W. H. Remington, labor contractor for the Oregon Short Line and Northern Pacific, is exhibiting his calorific conversation between Councilman Ab.

Judge Marshall referred to the alleged conversation between Councilman Abbott and County Commissioner Wilson, in which the former was quoted as saying that the county ought to stand by the city and get possession of the waterworks. Mr. Abbott had filed an affidavit denving the use of the lange waterworks. Mr. Abbott had filed an affidavit denying the use of the language attributed to him, "but," said Judge Marshall, "he does not deny saying something similar to it."

The injunction, which was issued late yesterday afternoon, warns the mayor and council of Ogden, together with their "clerks, agents, servants, attorneys, employees officers, warns, attorneys. their "Clerks, agents, servants, attorneys, employees, officers, workmen and subordinates" against interfering with the company in its efforts to collect water rates or preventing it from turning off the water from delinquents.

A bond of $10,000 was required from the plaintiff, the Ogden Waterworks company. It was signed by Judge Thomas D. Dee and David Eccles and was approved by the court.
